

SECURITY FILMS

Recent events have shown that our homes and offices are more vulnerable to the forces of nature and terrorism than we might like to think. From several hurricanes in the southern United States, to common criminals using low-tech tools to gain entry into million dollar homes in the southwest, to violent uprisings around the globe, the windows of our homes and businesses have proven to be the least secure part of our structures.

Often, it only takes a rock or a brick tossed at a window for a thief to have complete access to all of your valuables. If that same criminal is motivated by radical idealism, the same windows you find so open and inviting may become dangerous shrapnel during the detonation of an explosive device. FBI statistics have shown that nearly 80% of casualties from an explosion come from flying glass, so maintaining control of that glass is a vital factor in determining who survives an explosion and who doesn't.

The solution to these dangers does not have to be expensive or intrusive.

Call Metro Georgia Window Films, Inc. with your inquiries and a trained representative will personally respond to your security film needs immediately.

The solution to these dangers does not have to be expensive or intrusive. Metro Georgia Window Films, Inc. offers a complete line of clear and tinted security films designed to protect you from these potential dangers. These films, when applied to the surface of a window, not only strengthen that piece of glass up to 300%, but more importantly, keep the glass in its frame, should it be struck by flying debris during a storm, a rock thrown by a vandal, or if an explosive is detonated in its vicinity, thereby, denying an intruder entry, keeping your home or office safe from the forces of nature, and protecting you from flying glass.

Metro Georgia Window Films, Inc. has extensive experience with installations on military bases, state and federal government buildings, local law enforcement offices, schools, churches and synagogues, and private homes and businesses across the country. Our staff is trained to handle all security films and their attachment systems. We have completed complex installations from Hawaii to New York City and beyond. Our knowledge and experience has proven invaluable to the successful completion of hundreds of security film contracts.
